

Interamerican Psychology Call

Bulletin of the Inter-American Society of Psychology ISSN 1997-3748

Dear colleagues,

The next issue (No. 114) of the IAPA Bulletin: Interamerican Psychology/Interamerican Psychology, is waiting for your collaboration in any topic:

- ♦ I. Brief News Section. Disclose your latest scientific article(s), book(s), master's or doctoral dissertations, book reviews..
- ♦ II. World Section. Disseminate the proposals of your working group (WG); It is the section for Working Groups (WGs), National Representatives (RNs) and Voices of Membership.
- ♦ III. Shared Pride Section: Distinctions of relevance of IAPA members.

Attention: It is necessary to have a valid membership to publish in the newsletter.

Deadline: August 31, 2024

Send to: Solange Wechsler: wechsler@lexxa.com.br

Below are the details of each section. Visit our site for the latest issue:

<https://bulletin.sipsych.org>

And our repository with all the numbers: <https://sipsych.org/boletin-psicologia-interamericana/>

I SECTION "BRIEF NEWS"

Objective in the Bulletin: to disseminate some work of a SIP member, as well as to contribute to the much-needed work of scientific dissemination.

It consists of small notes in the form of news (not a copy of the scientific summary), about the findings, or advances, or conclusions, etc., derived from a work of yours, published in the last 12 months. Add an eye-catching title of up to 10 words, so that your note attracts the reader.

4. Approximate length of 150 words, in any official language of the IAPA
5. It incorporates, at the end of the note, the reference in strict APA format of the published work, on which the note is based.
6. Additional translation into another official language of the IAPA (English, Spanish, French, Portuguese). This will allow your work to have greater dissemination.

Do not include footnotes.

II. SIP WORLD SECTION

A) Working Groups

Disseminate relevant knowledge in relation to the topics and approaches carried out by your working group (official IAPA Working Groups). You can communicate and/or disseminate WG activities, actions, proposals, research, current topics, etc.

Do not include footnotes.

Short title, no more than 10 words.

B) National Representatives

Highlight what you consider relevant regarding Psychology in your country or some actions that you have carried out as a national representative. The possibilities can be as diverse as Psychology and those who make it. Short title, no more than 10 words. Do not include footnotes.

In either case (working groups or national representatives) it is a brief, readable note, approximately 200 to 400 words. It can be smaller or even higher if desired. Do not include footnotes. Short title, no more than 10 words.

C) Voices of Membership

They can be reports of professional or intervention experiences, empirical works or essays. The length of your contribution can vary: between 600 and 3000 words. Strict adherence to the APA style, latest edition, indispensable. Do not include footnotes. Short title, no more than 10 words.

Language: Any official language of the IAPA. Translation, if possible, into an additional language (English, Spanish, French, Portuguese) is appreciated to help with the promotion of what you disseminate.

D) Editorial News. Reviews of books authored by the membership or by the membership to other authors with relevant contributions to the psychology of the Americas. The length of your contribution can vary: between 500 and 1000 words. Strict adherence to the APA style, latest edition, indispensable. Do not include footnotes. Short title, no more than 12 words.

III. SHARED PRIDE SECTION

Have you recently received a distinction or recognition of relevance or do you know a member of the IAPA who has received it? This is a section of the newsletter dedicated to sharing the most recent distinctions received in the professional practice of Psychology as well as meritorious achievements of IAPA member colleagues.

Send the name of the recipient of the award (it can be you), the title of the award and a photo, preferably from the time of the award.